We Can Make A Difference Together.

By now, you have probably heard something about my trip to El Paso, whether through social media, at our Tisha B'av service, or in one of the articles I've written for other publications (see the link on our website if you would like to read more). I went to add my voice to the chorus of faith leaders calling for ethical treatment for immigrants. I witnessed first-hand the power that faith leaders and faithful people have in standing up to injustice. What I didn't expect was that my role as clergy would lead me to experience up close the devastation that these inhumane policies are inflicting on those who seek the promise of this country. As families filed into the shelter from buses that had brought them to us from detention, I could feel their exhaustion and their fear. I held their children with the smell of the camps still clinging to them and their struggle seeped into me. I won't ever forget it, and I can't ever accept it.

I am not the only person in our community who has traveled to the front lines of the border crisis. In June, our own Kitty Wolf went to Homestead, FL to protest at one of the most infamous detention centers in our country that was at the epicenter of the child separation crisis. She joined the Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism and many other faith groups in an ongoing protest. Every day for months, these groups held vigil outside of the fences, through which they could see children walking in single file lines while guards looked on. Just recently, those children, some of whom had been imprisoned for months, were moved out of that detention camp.

Public pressure from faith and activist groups led our government to stop detaining children at that cruel facility. It took months of frustratingly hard work. It took sustained pressure on public officials. It took extreme cooperation from groups of diverse backgrounds. But it worked. These voices, grounded in faith, were heard and their call was heeded.

This is what it means to pray with your feet. As a community of faith, bound by the values of justice and kindness toward all people, we have more power than we realize to create change in the world. Torah teaches us that we are obligated to engage in this work. As a part of our commitment to the Religious Action Center's Brit Olam, Ohef Sholom has joined an immigrant justice cohort. This will connect us with other congregations who are taking up this cause and provide us with resources to maximize our efforts. In the coming weeks, we will be exploring the ways that we can organize and use our collective voice to ensure that the strangers in our land are treated ethically. As a kehilah k'doshah -- a holy community, we must rise above politics and take action together, fulfilling our part of our covenant with God.

The work will be hard, and we will not finish it, but Pirkei Avot teaches us that we cannot opt out. As our efforts come together, I ask you to join us. Email me at cantorjen@ohefsholom.org if you would like to be involved. Let us make sure that one day, when our children or grandchildren ask us what we did to stand up to the injustice of this time, we can answer that we leaned into our values and engaged in the holy work to create the world we long to see. ☆

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS

Let's Break the Fast Together.

The expression, "Everything old is new again" aptly describes plans for this year's Break-the-Fast. We're headed back to the beginning, when Ohef Sholom Temple's Congregational Break-the-Fast was just that . . . for the entire congregation – a time to gather, visit with our Temple family, and of course, break the fast. What a wonderful, warm way to cap the High Holy Days!

And, so, in honor of Ohef Sholom's 175th Anniversary, Rabbi Roz, Cantor Jen, Music Director Chuck Woodward, Sisterhood, Men's Club, and the Temple are all contributing from their funds to make this year's Break-the-Fast open to everyone. And we really mean everyone! In fact, I can only imagine reasons for your presence. This is what I mean:

- If you attend the Concluding Service (which in my opinion, is one of the most inspiring services of the season), please stay.
- If you attend the Concluding Service, but are invited to a friend's or family Break-the-Fast, please stop by for a quick bite (or not), and visit for a bit.
- If you don't attend the Concluding Service, please come back. . . even if it's just in time for the Break-the-Fast.

Sort of like a big Oneg, this will be a great opportunity for us to visit and observe together the tradition of breaking the fast before heading into the New Year.

Debi Stadlin is chairing the event and I'm sure she'd appreciate some assistance. If you are so inclined, please contact her.

Reservations are not necessary, but if you let us know you'll be there, it'll sure help us plan to make certain our bagels, as well as everything else, are bountiful!

Please call the Temple office at 625-4295 or go online to ohefsholom.org.

I hope to see you in Kaufman Hall on Wednesday, October 9 at 6 pm!

Steve, Madeline, Deni, and I wish you all a happy, healthy, and peaceful New Year and hope that 5780 is filled with all good days for you and your family. ✨

Membership Committee News!

I have recently been asked to chair the Membership Committee and wanted to share a bit about our plans as well as ask for your input. I also want to thank Nicole Rosenblum for her amazing work over the past two years as Membership Chairperson. I certainly have big shoes to fill and will strive to do as good a job as Nicole.

Our two main goals this year for the Membership Committee are to engage and reach out to all of our members as well as to reach out to the unaffiliated in our community. As Terri Budman mentioned in her bulletin article last month, it is hard to meet every need of our approximately 700 families; however, we do want to try. To that end, our plan is to create more social and connection opportunities for our members of all ages, to create more relevant volunteer opportunities with different levels of commitment to suit different work and personal schedules, and to welcome our new members and help them integrate into our Temple family.

We hope to have an event each month that will offer the opportunity to meet, get to know, and socialize with other Temple members and also offer the opportunity for the unaffiliated to join in as well. Some ideas for events are the following: dinner & speakers; excursions to museums, plays, etc.; wine tastings; cooking classes; sessions for kids/ grandkids; bowling night; movie night; pool party; Mitzvah Day. I welcome your thoughts and input on these and other events that would interest YOU & YOUR FAMILY.

Finally, we are looking to create a Membership Committee/Group where the work is shared by many and isn't a huge commitment for any one person. We don't plan on "meeting people to death" and instead want to get people on board to help with different parts of the mission of the committee in the areas that interest them the most. Please consider joining in the FUN of the Membership Group!

My contact information is below – please feel free to email or call me with any ideas, thoughts and/or if you would like to join the Membership Group. I look forward to hearing from you. Thanks. ☆

SISTERHOOD UPDATES: Uniongrams Are Here!

Ohef Sholom Temple was one of the founding members of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods (NFTS) in 1913. Since then, the NFTS has updated its name to the Women of Reform Judaism (WRJ). One of the early innovations of the NFTS was to create an organized way to send written messages to people. Out of this desire, Uniongrams were created. The name, Uniongram, represents two organizations who were strongly connected to the NFTS - the Union of American Hebrew Congregations (UAHC, now URJ) and Hebrew Union College (HUC, now HUC-JIR).

Uniongrams have always been sold to raise money and since 1955 the funds have supported the WRJ YES (Youth, Education and Scholarship) Fund. Our local Sisterhood uses the money raised as part of the revenue supporting our many activities. Uniongrams were once referred to as "a Jewish message for a Jewish people" so order your Uniongrams to support the WRJ and our own Sisterhood causes. You can find more information on our site: ohefsholom.org/sisterhood. It's a great way to send messages of celebration!

In the August Sisterhood message, I introduced our Sisterhood Board. I neglected to list our Executive Vice Presidents for Administration, our immediate past presidents, Jeanne Miller and Abbey Pachter. I look forward to their valuable assistance.

As I introduce our groups of wonderful Committee Chairs each month, please think about how you might want to get involved. This month I am introducing the Sisterhood Ways and Means Committee Chairs:

- Uniongrams: Mara Bates
- Floral Fund: Paula Russell
- Rummage Sale: Marsha Moody
- Judaica Shop: Amy Metzger and Karen Plotnick

Please join us and feel free to contact me with any questions or concerns:

Our mission, as stated on the website:

"OST Sisterhood is a community of welcoming women from all walks of life who meet for spiritual, educational, and social growth through Judaism. Our diverse members are all ages and come from varying backgrounds, allowing us to join together to serve the needs of our congregation and community, while cultivating life-long friendships." ☆

MEN'S CLUB IN THE SPOTLIGHT:

Introducing Dan Snyder, Treasurer

Hopefully, you read my article in last month's bulletin where I wrote about getting to know each other. If you haven't, the bulletin is available on ohelsholom.org. I began with myself and now, in my continuing efforts to highlight Men's Club members, I'd like to introduce our Men's Club treasurer, Dan Snyder. In his own words, he was born at the Temple. Here is a brief synopsis of his story:

"I was the third generation of Snyders to be members of Ohel Sholom Temple. I was confirmed at OST but became a bar mitzvah at Temple Israel as Ohel Sholom did not have b'nai mitzvah in 1958. I was the treasurer of OST under the presidency of Natalie Levinson and stayed on the board becoming an honorary board member. I attended Norfolk Academy and the Lawrenceville School graduating in 1963. I went to Georgetown University where I received a BA in Economics. After Georgetown I attended NYU to get my MBA in accounting. In between my first and second year at NYU I joined the Air Force where I was a logistics officer at TAC Headquarters at Langley AFB. Pam and I were married in Seattle, Washington in 1969. Daughters Shauna and Helen were born before I left the Air Force. After graduating NYU I worked at Goodman & Co. in Norfolk where I became a CPA. In 1975 I left Goodman and started my own accounting business. I am currently retired and serving as treasurer of the Men's Club as well as providing food for the monthly meetings."

Carpool Café Presents a Film Screening of Nobody Wants Us: SS Quanza

On September 11, 1940, the SS Quanza docked in Norfolk to load coal. On board were more than 80 Jewish refugees from the Holocaust. Turned away by Mexico, and now being turned away by the U.S., the passengers were being sent back to Nazi-occupied Europe. Their story is the subject of an important new documentary that will be shown on October 6, at Ohel Sholom. Several local Jewish families, including several congregants, played a role in providing food and comfort for the refugees. One of them, Elise Margolius, is featured in the film. Others included members of the Gerst, Kaufman, Nusbaum, and Rosenberg families.

The SS Quanza docked in Norfolk

The documentary was produced by Washington, D.C. filmmaker Laura Seltzer-Duny. The OST Archives provided some of the source material for the film and is sponsoring the mid-morning program. Men's Club is providing food. There is no charge for the event, but donations are welcome, with proceeds to go towards the film company's efforts to create educational materials to accompany the film and make it more accessible to schools around the country. An invitation will follow, with a request for RSVP's to ensure there is seating (and food) for all who attend. A question and answer period will follow the screening. ☆

A Look Back at Our History, Part V: Ohef Sholom's Fifth Twenty-Five Years (1944 - 1969)

January of 1944 marked the beginning of America's third full year as a combatant nation in the Second World War. As war raged abroad, many congregants saw service in the armed forces, including Assistant Rabbi Joseph Levenson, who served in the Army's Chaplain's Corps. Here at home, congregants did what they could to support the troops through organizations like the USO and Red Cross. Congregants planted Victory Gardens, invited service members stationed in the area to enjoy home cooking and hospitality, and served in the Auxiliary Aircraft Warning Service, keeping watch for enemy planes that might enter America's airspace.

It was also in January of 1944 that the congregation's beloved 62-year-old Rabbi Louis Mendoza formally announced his intention to resign "after the war." In November, he handed in his official letter of resignation, giving September 1, 1945, as the intended date. Some might have wondered at his prescience when the war officially ended just two weeks prior to that date.

Several candidates were considered as his replacement; and on August 27, 1945, just a few days before Mendoza's stated retirement date, Rabbi Bernard J. Starkoff of Cleveland, Ohio, accepted the pulpit. Feelings were mixed over some of the new rabbi's ideas, and less than two years later, at the May 1947 annual congregational meeting, Rabbi Starkoff "asked for the floor" and announced his decision to leave the congregation and the rabbinate. However, perhaps the experience in Norfolk contributed to a fortuitous career change since Starkoff then went back to Ohio, went into his father-in-law's publishing business, and became a multimillionaire.

The Board wasted little time in finding a replacement for the outgoing rabbi. Meeting immediately after the close of the annual meeting, the Board appointed a committee to "visit other congregations" and make recommendations. The first name to be mentioned was that of a 32-year-old assistant rabbi from Philadelphia, Rabbi Malcolm Henry Stern.

Rabbi Malcolm Stern

Stern's candidacy was not without controversy due to his involvement in the American Council of Judaism. The Council had been formed five years earlier by a group of Reform rabbis who opposed the creation of a separate Jewish Army under the British in Palestine. For some of its founders, this was segregation. Their opposition was rooted in the conviction that Judaism should be considered a separate religion and not a separate nationality. However, some of the founders carried this belief further, opposing the creation of a separate homeland for the Jews. Although after the Holocaust some of its founders recanted their earlier opposition, there was uncertainty about Stern's position and whether his political views would influence his service to the congregation. He assured the Board that it would not, and his outstanding academic and pastoral career, his wartime career as a chaplain, and his strong interest in interfaith activities carried the day. Stern was elected, though, with a close vote of 83 to 73.

Stern served the congregation until 1964. In addition to continuing Rabbi Mendoza's tradition of strong interfaith involvement, Stern's rabbinic career was marked by his active involvement in the religious school and his love of music. In fact, he was editor-in-chief of the Union Songster for Reform Judaism and co-editor of songs and hymns for Gates of Prayer: the New Union Prayerbook. Stern is known internationally as the author of genealogical texts, which not only brought new knowledge to thousands but also served as a major source for Stephen Birmingham's 1981 book The Grandees: America's Sephardic Elite. Stern is also remembered for his Civil Rights advocacy. In the words of one of his colleagues, Stern "fought for the civil rights of

The URJ's Congregational Benchmark and Assessment Program

This fall we will be participating in the URJ's next Congregational Benchmark and Assessment Project. This URJ program was created in 2016 to help congregations compare their internal data to congregations of like demographics.

The project offers three assessment tools that leadership uses to get information about their congregants and congregational trends in order to make data-driven decisions:

- The Financial Benchmarking Tool will help us gather and analyze data about our congregation's demographics and key financial markers.
- The Congregational Survey will help shed light on the involvement of our congregants in Temple life. The survey also allows for comparison of results with other congregations by creating local and national benchmarks.
- Board Self-Assessment Rubric facilitates an examination of congregation's leadership, mission and governance.

Learn more from Linda Peck, Executive Director linda@ohefsholom.org

As participants in the URJ Congregational Benchmarking and Assessment Project, we will receive guidance from a URJ mentor who will help us understand the data, set priorities, and connect to resources that will set a course for the congregation's future.

In early September, we will email you a congregant survey which we hope you will take the time to complete. The more information we can collect, the more valuable our data.

Thank you in advance for helping us out by filling out the survey that you'll see in your inbox in early September! ☆

The 1940s and 1950s were marked by several momentous events here at home, nationally, and internationally. Here at Ohef Sholom, the ritual of Bar Mitzvah, which had been discontinued in 1907, was reintroduced in 1948. The same year, Sabbath School was changed to Sunday School. A new social hall, improved classrooms and kitchen, and a small library were added to the building. Nationally, the era saw the beginning of the Civil Rights Movement. Brown v Board of Education called for desegregation of the nation's schools, Stern organized an interracial Sunday night service at the Temple, and in 1958, Ohef Sholom Temple was one of several houses of worship used for tutoring sessions for students locked out of their schools by Virginia's Massive Resistance policy. Several congregants were instrumental in getting the courts to reverse that policy early in 1959. Finally, on the international stage, in 1947, several congregants were instrumental in the repair and resupplying of the SS Exodus 1947, whose passengers' fate contributed to the birth of the modern state of Israel.

The 1960s brought new plans for expansion of the building, but it also brought the end of Rabbi Stern's tenure at Ohef Sholom. In 1964, Stern resigned to accept the position of Director of the Rabbinical Placement Commission. He was replaced by Rabbi Harold D. Hahn, who made changes to both the Friday night service and the religious school, adding

LIFE & LEGACY

LIFE & LEGACY Ways to Give to Ohef Sholom

Have you considered making a last gift to YOUR Jewish community? The goal of planned giving is to help you plan your estate and charitable giving in a way that benefits you, your family, and Ohef Sholom. There are many ways you can make these planned gifts and enjoy tax and income gifts including the following options:

Bequest or Living Trust: Name OST in your will or living trust for a specific sum or percentage.

Charitable Remainder Trust: Transfer cash or appreciated property to fund a charitable trust that provides you or family member (s) with income for life or terms of years. The remainder of this asset is left to OST.

IRA or Retirement Plan Designation: Name OST as a beneficiary of your retirement account to be distributed after your lifetime. A Change of Beneficiary form has no cost involved!

Charitable Lead Trust: Transfer property or cash to create a trust that makes gifts to OST for a number years; the principle is retained for your family at substantial tax savings

Life Insurance: Purchase a new policy (or transfer an existing policy you no longer need) and name OST as owner or beneficiary.

Life Estate Reserved: Deed/gift your home to OST and retain the right to use the property during your lifetime. After your lifetime, property is sold and OST receives the proceeds.

To date, Ohef Sholom has raised over $3,000,000 through after-lifetime gifts and we want YOU to join us in the conversation. Leaving a legacy gift is easy to do, and anyone can participate regardless of age, wealth, or affiliation.

To arrange a confidential, no obligation discussion, please reach out to our LIFE & LEGACY Chair, Matt Fine at matthewfine@cox.net or (757) 407-1368. Your commitment today will ensure a vibrant tomorrow. ✨

► elementary Hebrew to the curriculum. There were more changes as the building expansion was completed in 1965. A year later, Ohef Sholom Temple Youth (OSTY) was formally organized. As the decade drew to a close, Ohef Sholom began preparations to celebrate its 125th anniversary, but the resignation of Rabbi Hahn forced the congregation to once again find a new rabbi. The preceding years had brought many changes. There had been changes in ritual, four different senior rabbis had graced the pulpit, and the building had undergone renovation and expansion. However, what remained unchanged was a belief in the Temple as a source of faith and learning, loyalty to its Jewish heritage and its American roots, and belief in its goal to make the world a better place for all people. ✨

WE OF OHEF SHOLOM IN THE SPOTLIGHT

WHO'S NEW? Meet Alicia & Eric Shoulta.

Welcome Alicia & Eric when you see them around Temple!

Ohef Sholom congregation and choir.

Eric's perspective is from the choir seats, and the angle his wife Alicia enjoys is usually from the first or second row on the right side of the Sinai Chapel floor. There she sits with a group of mostly 20-to-40-somethings who call themselves, lightheartedly, the "Jew Crew."

For the Shoultas, residents of Norfolk's Lafayette-Winona, this is tantamount to being "home." Officially converted to Judaism earlier this year at a joy-filled Friday evening service, Eric and Alicia are almost invariably surrounded by large circles of people at the casual oneg Shabbat. From the start, they have savored the sense of community here, as well as the religious teachings and practices that have been handed down over thousands of years and are now theirs.

"Judaism is more about doing than believing," says Alicia. "This makes so much more sense" because of its emphasis on good deeds and ethical living.

"Other cultures have ingested so much of Judaism, without most people realizing it," Eric explains. "Our system of laws, our ethical precepts – so much of it is rooted in Judaism."

He says the latitude allowed in Reform Judaism contrasts sharply with the dogmatic approach to knowing God that he grew up with as a Catholic in central Kentucky. "I have nothing against

Take it from two music lovers who know an outstanding voice when they hear it:

"It's like being at a concert," Eric Shoulta says of Shabbat services with Cantor Jen on the bimah, her operatic-quality soprano voice leading the Catholicism, but it was not a 'home' for me," he says. "I disagreed with much of the theology, tried to get aligned with it several times, but I found myself floating."

Alicia's Christian background was based on church-centered youth activities. When the people in the youth groups faded away, she recalls, so did her interest in her religion.

The spark to examine Judaism as an alternative was Eric's but they reached the same conclusion together. "We are a team in pretty much everything," he says.

"I wanted to look into the religion myself because I was not going to be pushed into something," says Alicia, who, in her working life, is senior campaign manager for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society's Hampton Roads chapter. "I needed to find interest in Judaism on my own, not just because my husband was interested in it."

So they studied. They liked, as Eric puts it, that "Reform Judaism allows you the freedom to engage the Mitzvot in your own way and in your own time."

They had a mentor in the form of Ohef Sholom congregant Kathryn Morton. Eric, in the Navy and stationed at Information Warfare Training Group Norfolk, went to Israel with the USS Iwo Jima as part of a 2018 deployment. He also had help from the rabbi aboard the USS Oak Hill as he began his formal conversion process.

Like a proper naval officer, he reported back to Alicia.

By then, Alicia was already attending some services at Ohef Sholom. Inspired by members and teachings, she told Eric, "This is our Temple."

Their Temple activities go a long way to make it so. The Jew Crew provides dining-out and hanging-out camaraderie for both and the choir position offers Eric, who also plays guitar and piano, opportunities to indulge his musical interests. "I think my voice

OSTY'S ANNUAL HIGH HOLY DAYS FOOD DRIVE

Greetings and salutations
from Leia Morrissey, OSTY President!

The High Holy Days are fast approaching along with OSTY's annual food drive, and we're excited to see how much we'll collect this year. Over the many years we've hosted the food drive, we've been able to bring in about 3,000 lbs. of food per year. The non-perishable food items you bring back on Yom Kippur will be sent to the Foodbank of Southeast Virginia, Jewish Family Service, and our own OST Soup Kitchen. This food will then be given to people in our community in need.

What a great way to start the new year right by helping the community and fulfilling the mitzvah of Gemilut Chasadim: acts of love and kindness. So remember, on Rosh HaShanah when we give out bags, fill them up by Yom Kippur and help fill a person's stomach.

Leia Morrissey, OSTY President
